Willie Berg Received a Fatal Electric Shock.

He Threw a Thin Wire Over a Street Car Trolley.

HE THEN CAUGHT HOLD OF BOTH ENDS AND KILLED A CORPSE.

The Young Boy Had Come Home From Work to Dinner and Went Out Into the Street to Have "Some Fun," as He Put It—Sad Scene.

Willie Berg, the 16-year-old son of Lawrence Berg, a railroad watchman at the Anheuser-Busch Brewery, met an instantaneous death by electrocution at 12:30 this afternoon in front of his home, No. 2835 South Ninth street. He had just finished his dinner, and going out on the street to play with his younger brother, took a coil of thin wire from his pocket, tied a stone to one end and of it and playfully pitched it over the trolley of the South St. Louis Electric Railway, which passes directly in front of the house. As it descended he caught the wire-wrapped stone in his left hand and as the other end of the wire was coiled around his right arm the circuit was completed. He fell to the ground a corpse.

WENT OUT FOR FUN.

The dead boy was the eldest son in a family of eight children, and has been employed at the Stecher Coal Company, 2907 South Seventh street, for the past two years. He went to work this morning as usual and came home at noon for his mid-day meal. His father had also come home from the brewery near by and with Mrs. Berg and the younger children they all took dinner together. When they had risen from the table Mrs. Berg suggested that Willie go wash his face and hands before returning to his room. Instead Willie is said to have remarked that he would go out and have a little fun. So taking his little 9-year-old brother, Frank, they went out in front and agreed to enjoy themselves by attempting to throw a stone tied to the end of a thin wire over the trolley wire. Willie had a quantity of very thin wire, which is said to be used for fastening corks in beer bottles and, taking this from his pocket, he tied a stone in the end of it and let it fly up at the trolley wire while he and his little brother waited to see what would happen.

Before he had thrown the stone he had fastened the other end of the wire tightly about his right hand, wrist and arm. When he got the stone over the trolley he reached up, seized the dangling wire and attempted to pull it down. As he did so he received a sudden shock so severe that it drew both of the unfortunate boy's hands up to his breast and with a moan he sank to the ground, unable to shake himself free from the wire's deadly embrace. His frightened brother quickly attempted to free Willie from the wire's grasp, but a bystander, fearing he would be killed, stopped him. A passer-by, however, broke the wire with a stick and then carried the dead body into the house, where he had left his parents just a few minutes before.

GRIEF OF THE FAMILY.

When they learned their son brought in dead their grief knew no bounds, and they threw themselves on the lifeless form and wept piteously. Dr. Herman W. Faber of 301 South Broadway was hurriedly summoned, but when he arrived he pronounced life extinct and declared that the boy's death had been instantaneous. When the doctor looked at the dead body in the front room of the three-room apartment occupied by the Berg family on the first floor of 2835 South Ninth street he found that the boy's right arm had been cut, the fingers of his right hand cut off, several large cuts on the palm of the right hand, which had been cauterized by the electric current's heat. The doctor found, however, that the wound which had caused the boy's death was a hole about one-half an inch wide down to the bone in the boy's left breast just over the heart, where the current must have entered the body from the wire just as the boy's hands were forced up to his breast when he first caught hold of the wire. When Dr. Faber pronounced the boy dead his two older sisters, who work at Liggett & Myers' tobacco factory, were notified of the occurrence. They arrived home about 3 o'clock and gave pathetic vent to their terrible grief.

MANDAMUS SUIT.

John M. Glover Brings Another Action Against the Wiggins Ferry Co.

Attorney John M. Glover this afternoon filed mandamus proceedings against the Wiggins Ferry Co. to ouster them from the St. Louis ferry and to restore to the public the use of the river. The suit is brought in the name of his wife, Augusta Glover, and by it Attorney Glover seeks to recover the name of his wife when the two companies were consolidated.

Health Department Reports.

The annual reports of the chief clerk, chief dispensary physician, chief sanitary officer and city chemist, all of the Health Department, were submitted to-day. The mortality for the calendar year, 1893, based on a population of 448,000 was 20.2 per 1,000, while the mortality for the calendar year, 1894, ending April 1, was 20.0, or 19.2 per 1,000 on a population of 448,000. The number of deaths reported amounted to 12,050, or 28 per 1,000. The chief clerk, John J. Jack, believes that the number of deaths are too small, a great many more being reported than are.

Allen's Warm Defense.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—In dwelling on the Coxy case in the Senate to-day, Mr. Allen spoke with feeling. He had waited a week after the outrage committed upon the Capitol grounds before introducing his resolution, he said, expecting that one of the senators from Ohio, the State from which Mr. Coxy came, would take some steps to investigate the matter. Mr. Coxy came from the congressional district formerly represented by Gov. McKinley. The case was such as took place in the presence of 10,000 people on May 1, on the plaza in front of the Capitol, should be investigated with-out delay.

Coxy in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Jacob S. Coxy, "General" of the Commonwealth, and his two lieutenants, Carl Browne and Christopher Columbus Jones, who were convicted in the Police Court yesterday, were in the Senate when that body met to-day, anticipating a further airing of their case in connection with the Allen resolution. To investigate the alleged police clubbing on the Capitol grounds, the Senate was called upon by Mr. Coxy. The case was opened with the regular routine morning business.

GEN. JOHN B. HENDERSON

Discusses Politics, But Says His Principal Interest Is in Religion.

Gen. John B. Henderson, leader in the long-ago of the Federalist wing of the party, and the life-long and chief political enemy of Chauncey D. Wiggins, is in St. Louis on law business. He has been at Kansas City looking after the remnants of the railroad and coal strikes that have been going on since the Federal Court in the Western District, and is now in this city on a mission of a kind of character. Henderson is as sprightly in motion and as nervously energetic in speech as ever, but it is that of a man who is not exactly ripe of a powerful aggressive character at full maturity. In fact, the General is just a few years from the end of his career, and whether there was not in the East a rapidly developing sentiment in favor of turning aside from McKinley and radical Republicanism in the next national campaign, and of concentrating strength upon Dewey. His answer was:

"The policy of the Republican party in the next national campaign cannot possibly be determined until it is clear what the Congress will do. I can not see now whether the party will be in a position to overshadow that of the tariff, but in view of the uncertainties of the results of the legislation now pending, no prediction can be made. As to the candidates, I understand that both Mr. Dewey and Mr. McKinley are candidates for nomination, and I have seen and heard nothing that would indicate the retirement of either."

"Do you still take an interest in Missouri politics?"

"I have no reason to take an interest in the affairs of the Democratic party, nor have I any particular cause to desire the success of the Republican party, either State or national; but as to the situation in Missouri, I can not say. I am a young man, politics is a fascinating study, and I am becoming more and more interested in it. I am becoming more and more interested in it. I am becoming more and more interested in it."

The last sentence was uttered with a vehemence that was almost hysterical.

As Gen. Henderson stepped off the curb at Fourth and Pine streets to cross to the westward, a crowd of people gathered about him. Whether or not the General desired the prayers of the people of St. Louis, the reporter had no chance to ascertain.

THE BROOKLYN HANDICAP
The Whom Should Win the Brooklyn Handicap?
The Outcomes of the Candidates for the Rich Prize—Bookmakers' Complaint of the Poor Programmes at the Fair Grounds—Familiar and Sporting News in General.

The Brooklyn handicap is only a week away and those who follow the candidates in their daily work closely affect to be as much in doubt as to the outcome as they were when the weights were first made public.

Greater interest attaches to the race in the West than ever before, because a Western horse is the present and will without doubt be the post favorite.

The starters will be made up from the following list:

Name and Age	Lib.	Owner	Jockey
Albion, 4	122	John A. Brown	Marion
Albion, 4	122	John A. Brown	Marion

If the track is good the field will be a large one, while if bad weather comes on the end the field will be smaller.

If the track and climate are good I do not think it is any race. Easterners will think it is a heavy one, but I have seen so much of the Brooklyn handicap that I have every reason to believe that it will be a greater horse in all respects than the one that has won it in the past.

There were days when the Brooklyn handicap was a Sunday horse. A horse of immense frame, he had more than enough of the thoroughbred in him to have won it in the past. I saw him do his mile and a quarter in 2:00 over the Washington track and I saw him do his mile and a quarter in 2:00 over the Washington track and I saw him do his mile and a quarter in 2:00 over the Washington track.

Clifford is a different horse. He has the most perfect action ever given a thoroughbred. When he is racing a quarter in twenty-four seconds he is not a quarter in twenty-four seconds. He is a quarter in twenty-four seconds. He is a quarter in twenty-four seconds. He is a quarter in twenty-four seconds.

Of the other year-olds a word is necessary as to how they look. The year-olds of 1914 would win. The year-olds of 1914 would win. The year-olds of 1914 would win. The year-olds of 1914 would win. The year-olds of 1914 would win.

TRACK AND STABLE CHAT.
Unsatistactory Close to the Fair Grounds—Where Waa's Good.

Twenty-eight books drew on at the Fair Grounds yesterday and most of the chaffers are still growing about the light play. One of the betting ring managers informed a Post-Dispatch representative that the poor betting was due to the unsatisfactory programme. He didn't go into details to explain why the card was as flat, but in a general way stated that the races failed to attract entries from the owners of the better class of horses now at the track.

"If Palermo is right he won't have any trouble with the race," said Capt. Billy Joyce before the sixth race yesterday. "He will tell you why I think so. Chimes, my best horse, is a real horse, but he can't make Palermo extend himself when he's good. It took me some time to ascertain this fact. I finally did, and it put quite a crimp in my bank roll. First we measured conclusively with him. He used a big gun on a heavy track, and he beat Chimes handily."

Henry Schultz, financial backer of the Camden stable and partner of Frank Weir and Counselor Bill Brien, will return to New York in a day or two. He wants to back his horses in the Eastern pool-rooms and will consider the placing of his partners' big commissions. All the New Jersey turnouts now here play their own horses heavily with foreign pool-rooms. With good things from the stable are cut loose they never lack financial support.

That popular plunger, Jack White, won a good thing yesterday. It was his Turco colt, Dorman, who won the race at 15 to 1. White had about 200 straight on the colt. All of White's stable followers played Dorman on the strength of trial he made yesterday.

MME. M. YALE

A model for all women at 41. She is the reigning beauty of the nineteenth century. Perfect from the crown of her glorious golden head to the soles of her dainty little feet, she defies old Father Time to lay one withering finger mark on her exquisite loveliness.

Intellect rules the world. Beauty rules intellect. Health destroys beauty. Ill-nature kills youth. "Growing young is laying up treasures of priceless value." Most women find it easy to win a husband, but hard to hold him. "Beauty is woman's weapon."

HINTS FROM MME. YALE'S BEAUTY LECTURES:

Harder and Attempted Suicide.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 2.—Albert Woodley, a painter, shot and killed Mrs. Jennie Buchanan at her home, 45 Sturgeon street, Allegheny, to-day and then attempted suicide by shooting himself in the head. The wound, however, is not thought to be fatal. The cause of the tragedy is a mystery, but it is believed to have been jealousy. Mrs. Buchanan is 37 years old and recently parted from her husband.

It Don't Cost Much.

To get well. Only a dollar or two and a little faith. The case of Mrs. Lillie Meyer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is an example. Some time ago she began to feel sharp pains in her abdomen, with bearing-down feeling and pains in her back. She tried doctors, and got no relief.

At last, a friend told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after using it, the pain left her, and menstruation now comes without suffering.

Your druggist will tell you what a great medicine this is, and the price is only one dollar. You see, it don't cost much to get well. It will expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development.

DUFF'S MALT WHISKY CO., ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Explanation of Tony Stuever's Getting Out of the Race in the Tenth District—Cobb's Friends Recount the Action of County Conventions.

The Stone-O'Meara men were treated to a sort of show-off at Albany Hall, Twenty-fourth Ward, last night, where they assembled to talk over their grievances against the Maflitt opposition. They had their officer, precinct chairman picked out and had O. P. Guthrie on hand to act as orator. But the Maflitt men were there, too, with less for making a prompt beginning and end of the meeting, and before the originators of the meeting understood what was passing, Jim Corcoran was elected chairman and Frank J. Bahr secretary.

Corcoran appointed T. P. Killeen and John D. O'Keefe a committee to nominate precinct committeemen, which they did, naming Dan J. Coffey for 130, John Courtney for 181, John Flanagan for 132, John H. Ryan for 133, John Hatchford for 134. The nominations were immediately ratified by the meeting, which at once adjourned, leaving the Stone-O'Meara forces in possession of the hall which had served its purpose. After it was all over, Guthrie, who had been the originator of the program for a Stone-and-harmony speech, approached Mr. O'Keefe and asked: "What the—was done here anyhow? Where are the records? The revised exercises in which Maj. Guthrie, Thomas B. Ward and others were to have taken part were not held."

Approver of Tony Stuever's published "declaration" of the State Central Committee for the Tenth District, the boys are telling a little story. It is to the effect that on Sunday Tony was out at Clayton making himself agreeable, visiting the records and setting "me up to the boys—not bear, which is an article of commerce to him, and the consumption of which he likes to encourage—but wine in yellow necked bottles, in the sale of which he has no pecuniary advantage. Somebody sized Tony up about right, and taking him aside, informed him that it was futile for him to spend his wealth on the county delegates for they were all already pledged to Fred Zeibig, the present member. Tony took the hint, and the news of his "declaration" went around the next day.

"I don't see why these county conventions want to pass resolutions 'indorsing' all the Missouri delegation except Mr. Cobb," as some of them are doing," remarked a strong Cobb man. "Why don't they just pick the men they want to indorse and indorse them and let the rest alone. Cobb didn't run out in the State, but right here in the Twelfth Congressional District, and no other kind of a man than one who holds the same sort of views could be elected in this district. It strikes me that the country Democrats are coming to think they own St. Louis."

A forecast of the make-up of the next Democratic State Committee was handed to Post-Dispatch man yesterday by a strong Maflitt man. It is not quite complete, but the prognosticator admits that as it stands it would probably organize with Salmon as chairman:

- First District—John H. Carroll, Unionville (re-elected).
- Second District—Uncertain.
- Third District—J. B. Thomas, Albany (re-elected).
- Fourth District—W. T. Penkins, Platte City (re-elected).
- Fifth District—Johnson, Kansas City, vice Teasdale.
- Sixth District—Harvey W. Salmon, Clinton (re-elected).
- Seventh District—Ben Anderson, Springfield, vice Delmar.
- Eighth District—Will Zeveloff (re-elected).
- Ninth District—Sam B. Cook, Mexico (re-elected).
- Tenth District—Fred Zeibig, St. Louis (re-elected).
- Eleventh District—Thos. E. Barrett, St. Louis, vice E. A. Noonan.
- Twelfth District—C. C. Mamm, St. Louis (re-elected).
- Thirteenth District—Henry Roemer, St. Genevieve (re-elected).
- Fourteenth District—A. C. Sherwood, Cape Girardeau (re-elected, doubtful), or Louis Houk.
- Fifteenth District—Thomas Connor, Joplin (re-elected).

In connection with the efforts being made to secure Stuever's support in the St. Louis membership in the State Committee, a large story is going around, and has not been effectively denied, that the Stone forces are nursing a scheme, suggesting such a change in the rules of the convention, which would give the choice of the State Committee chairman to the convention. The men who bring the charge declare that the plan is to change the rules of the convention, which would give the choice of the State Committee chairman to the convention. Knocked Down and Robbed.

Walter O. Davis of 1900s Benton street, while going home on Eleventh street, between Bids and O'Fallon, about 10 o'clock this morning was knocked down by two colored men, dragged into a hallway at 1009 North Eleventh street, and robbed of $14 in cash and some books which he was carrying. The man who took the books, a few minutes later, identified them as the men who had robbed him. Only $5 was found on Henry, however, and no money at all on the boy. The boys were not recovered, and a warrant for highway robbery will be applied for to-day.

Wheat Traders Waiting for the Government Report—The Tip That Is Out—Action of Principal Markets.

That supposed leak in the Agricultural Department at Washington is creating a good deal of discussion among the trade, especially on the St. Louis Exchange. Yesterday it was wired from Chicago that the Government report on the condition of winter wheat in May was expected to be a disappointing one. This information might have come from the Government bureau, several traders wired the Secretary of Agriculture, Statisticians Robinson and Congressman Cobb and if the Government report was anywhere near that such an estimate was out and if it was not, it would be a disappointment. It is believed that inside information was furnished certain parties in Chicago and elsewhere in advance of the public report. The only reason for this is that the Government report was expected to be a disappointing one. This information might have come from the Government bureau, several traders wired the Secretary of Agriculture, Statisticians Robinson and Congressman Cobb and if the Government report was anywhere near that such an estimate was out and if it was not, it would be a disappointment.
